LEGEND OF PADUA

Legend says that the foundation of Padua took place in 1132 BC through the work of Antenor, a Trojan prince who escaped from the destruction of Troy.

The ancient Padua was built inside a bend of the river Brenta.

Over the next four centuries Padua, while losing political importance, was able to enjoy the peace and prosperity ensured by the Venetian dominium.

TOMB OF ANTENOR

Antenor was a Trojan prince who founded Padua.

The tomb of Antenor is placed in the square in front of the administrative building of the province of Padua, and near the international bookshop Feltrinelli.

The tomb was built in 1283 to collect the funeral sarcophagus of Antenor who, according to Virgilio, should have founded the city in 1183 B.C. .

THE BASILICA OF ST. ANTHONY

- It's one of the biggest churches in the world
- It was finished in 1310
- The exterior style is a mixing of mainly Romanesque and Byzantine elements, with some Gothic features.
- Relics of St Anthony can be found in the Treasury Chapel

PRATO DELLA VALLE

- Prato della Valle is a square situated in Padua. It is one of the largest squares in Europe.
- It's the second biggest square in Europe
- The square has a green island at the center, l'Isola Memmia, surrounded by a small canal bordered by two rings of statues.

- In 1775 Memmo decided to restructure the entire area which was a swampland.
- Today Prato della Valle is a meeting place for people and tourists.

“BÒ” BUILDING

- Palazzo del Bò , which is placed near 'café Pedrocchi', was built during the XVth century.
- It has been hosting the university of Padua since 1493.
- University of Padua was founded in 1222 and it is, with university of Modena and Bologna, one of the ancient ones in Italy and also in Europe. Famous scientists -as Galileo Galilei- taught here!

Palazzo della Ragione (Palace of Reason)

Palace of Reason was the old tribunal of Padua since 1800.

The building began in 1218 and it was ended in 1306. Its roof looks like an overturned ships hull.

It divides the two squares of fruit and grass. The walls are covered with frescoes made by Giotto.

In 1756, a tornado damaged the building especially the roof.

PADUA SQUARES

PIAZZA DELLA FRUTTA

It is one of the two squares symbol of the commercial area of Padua that faces one of the two sides of the “palazzo della Ragione.

PIAZZA DEI SIGNORI

It is a square of Padua, close to Piazza delle Erbe and Piazza della Frutta. It is so called because here the Palace of the Sirs was erected, and the Sirs were the Carraresi

THE CLOCK TOWER - Torre dell'Orologio

Padova, Torre dell'Orologio in Piazza dei Signori

- IN A PALACE NEAR THE END OF "PIAZZA DEI SIGNORI", THERE IS A TOWER WITH AN INTERESTING CLOCK.
- THE CLOCK IS A REPLICA OF THE ORIGINAL ONE BY JACOPO DONDI IN 1344.
- IT SHOULD BE THE FIRST PUBLIC CLOCK IN ITALY.
- THE CLOCK HAS 24 HOUR DIAL, SO THE HOUR HAND ROTATES AT HALF OF NORMAL SPEED. IT ALSO SHOWS THE POSITION OF THE SUN IN THE ZODIAC AND CURRENT PHASES OF THE MOON.

Cafè Pedrocchi

- The Pedrocchi Cafe is a historic cafe internationally famous, located in the heart of Padua. It was built in 1772 thanks to the idea of Francesco Pedrocchi from Bergamo. The Cafe Pedrocchi was a prestigious meeting place attended by intellectuals, students, teachers and politicians.
- It is composed of three main rooms on the ground floor: the White Room, the Red Room and the Green Room
- The upper floor is divided into eight rooms, each decorated in a different style.
